Cruse, Valle, four new aldermen win

Mayor Von Dee Cruse and his wife Lois greet supporters.

GRANITE CITY — He had an early scare, but Mayor Von Dee Cruse easily defeated Street Superintendent Mac Warfield on Tuesday by more than 1,200 votes.

Additionally, incumbent Treasurer Gail Valle breezed into office in her first election. Meanwhile four new aldermen were voted into office and two incumbent aldermen, Sharon Perjak and Ralph Astorian, were ousted.

Early returns gave street chief Warfield three of five precincts, but they did not signal a trend. Cruse beat Warfield 5,205-3,921 in unofficial results.

Long before Mayor Von Dee Cruse arrived at St. Gregory's Armenian Hall, where his victory party had been in full swing, supporters knew they had plenty to cheer about.

After his 11:45 p.m. arrival, a weary Cruse likened the vote situation to the last election. "It was a replay of four years ago," Cruse, standing on a chair, told a crowd of several hundred. "We started out losing and now we've won."

periodically interrupted by bursts of applause and chants of "Von Dee!"

Cruse said he was "very confident from the start" about his re-election, although he has substantially less confidence about his candidacy in 1993. "The odds on me being a candidate in four years, knowing that I'll be '39, are about 50-50 at this point," said Cruse, 66.

While Cruse did not worry about the election, he was upset by the "mud-slinging" that had gone on during the campaign. "They knew the truth but kept saying I lied," Cruse said of his opposition. "That is enough to bother anyone whether they're in politics or not."

But Cruse did not allow the negative to dampen the positive.

"In the next six months so many good things are going to happen in our city," Cruse said, adding that a decision on

Bellcoff, slate sweep

MADISON — Mayor John Bellcoff headed a slate that swept to victory in Tuesday's election.

Bellcoff beat opponent Ron Grzywacz by an almost 2-to-1 margin, 1,534 to 798, according to the unofficial tally by Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles.

Other winners were City Clerk Bill Weidner, City Treasurer Fred Bathon, 1st Ward Alderman George Amisch, Jim Caffrey, who won a three-way race in the 2nd Ward, 3rd Ward Alderman Michael Vrabec and 4th Ward Alderman Charles Rockett.

Weidner defeated Gary Novich 1,383 to 510. Amisch beat Richard George 255 to 156, and Vrabec beat Bill Papa 368 to 184.

The closest race was in the 2nd Ward, where city organization-endorsed candidate Jim Caffrey won with 292 votes to 250 for Robert Grieve and 88 for Michael Antonovich Jr.

Bathon and Rockett were unopposed, tallying 1,534 and 280.

The Madison election was closely tied to the Venice Township election, in which Andy Economy ran a fairly close second to Richard "Popeye" Paterson in the race for supervisor.

Paterson received 1,294, Economy 1,098 and Jim Riskovsky 515. Economy, who with Grzywacz had backed losers Novich, Grieve and Papa, contended that Riskovsky and Antonovich had entered as "spoilers" to draw potential votes from himself and Grieve. Paterson disagreed, saying Riskovsky was a serious candidate.

Bellcoff, on the other hand, backed nothing but winners, and in his victory speech at about midnight at the Madison Firemen's Hall, he pledged to work with Paterson and Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols "to make Venice

"I think that the people of Madison, Venice and Nameoki Township have given us a mandate that they want honesty and integrity in city and township government," Bellcoff said.

"We did what we started out to do," Paterson said to a cheer.

3 village trustee seats captured by opposition

By Valerie Evenden

PONTON BEACH — Village races in Tuesday's election promised to be lively and they were, with three new trustees winning voter approval.

Trustee winners were Robert Abel, incumbent, and Marvin Ribbing, Robert Douglas and Irene Karlechik.

Karlechik, a former Stallings School secretary for 23 years, and Trustee Abel, a 50-year resident, were the top vote-getters.

According to complete unofficial election figures, Karlechik received 359 votes to win a two-year term on the board and Abel tallied 324 votes to retain his position for four more years.

The remaining range of votes was extremely close. Seven of the 10 candidates, ranged between 287 and 324 votes.

Also capturing four-year terms were Ribbing,

$3,253,373 settlement awarded former GC man

EDWARDSVILLE — A former Granite City resident injured in a four-vehicle accident on Aug. 2, 1985, was awarded a $3,253,373 settlement Wednesday in Madison County Circuit Court.

The judgment was awarded to Ross W. Connor of Worden, formerly of Granite City, by Circuit Judge Phillip J. Kardis against Kroblin Refrigerated Express Inc. of Chicago, Granite City attorneys Keith Jensen and Lance Callis represented Connor.

The accident on Interstate 270 at Illinois 203 in which Connor was injured claimed the lives of three people.

Two of those killed were Stephen P. Bender, 17, and Robin Johnson, 16, both of Edwardsville, who were passengers in a car driven by Johnson's mother, Ruth A. Rutherford, 42, of Edwardsville.

The third fatality was Richard Bunnell, 60, of Florissant, Mo., who was alone in his car.

Rutherford was seriously hurt in the crash and another passenger in her car, Gerald Willis, 33, of Edwardsville, also was injured.

Rutherford, Connor and Bunnell were in the last three cars in a line of traffic that was backed up for a mile behind construction on the I-270 bridge over the Chain of Links Canal.

The crash occurred when a westbound Kroblin Refrigerated tractor-trailer truck operated by LeAnn Crowley-Jones, 33, of Kansas City, Mo., rammed into the Rutherford car, starting a chain reaction involving the two other cars, state police officers said.

The truck ran up and over Rutherford's and Connor's cars, pushing them onto the north shoulder, and then struck Bunnell's car, which became lodged on the front of the truck and was dragged about 600 feet and down an embankment into a deep ditch on the north side of I-270.

Crowley-Jones was indicted Sept. 4, 1985, by a Madison County grand jury, charging her with two counts of reckless homicide in each of the three deaths and

Church fire victims get interim facilities

By Dennis Grubaugh
Managing editor

GRANITE CITY — Only hours after a devastating fire, officials with the Mt. Zion General Baptist Church and the Gateway Christian Academy have accepted offers of temporary space to house their congregation and school.

"Everybody's been offering all kinds of help," said the Rev. Larry G. Hunt, pastor. "Churches of every denomination have offered their facilities. We've been flooded with offers."

Beginning Sunday, the congregation has been given the use of First Christian Church on Maryville Road for both afternoon and evening sessions, but the times are uncertain, Hunt said.

"We're just amazed at their pastor, Jerry Britt. They offered to work with us in any way until we can rebuild."

In addition, St. Peter's Evangelical United Church of Christ at Cleveland Boulevard and 21st Street has offered the space for the Gateway Academy's 41 students, starting Monday, Hunt said.

"Rev. (Ronald) Petersen came to us. He has been tremendous in trying to help."

Meanwhile, the investigation into the cause of the fire at 21st and Benton early Tuesday morning continues. County arson experts believe the fire was deliberate.

Both fire and church officials discount the idea that the fire might have been set as revenge for incidents that have occurred in the last year. The former principal of the school, Mark R. Warren, was sentenced in February to four years in prison for aggravated criminal sexual abuse, dealing with incidents involving two female school students one year ago.

"There's no way of knowing," Hunt said. "But I don't think (the victims' families) turned against the church. There's not been any open hostilities."

A back door to the church was open when firefighters arrived, and Hunt's office had been ransacked, he said. Authorities found half-eaten candy bars.

FIRE INVESTIGATORS with the Madison County Arson Squad examine a rear entrance found ajar by firefighters early Tuesday morning. Arson is suspected in the fire that destroyed Mount Zion General Baptist Church and the adjoining school. Several fires were found in different parts of the basement. More photos are on Page 2A.

Deputy charged with cruelty

Algie L. Crawford III, a Madison County deputy sheriff from Venice, has been charged with cruelty to children, a Class IV felony, in an information issued by Circuit Judge Charles V. Romani. Crawford was arrested March 31 by the Illinois State Police.

The charge against Crawford, 31, of the 500 block of Jefferson Avenue, Venice, resulted from an investigation into injuries suffered by the 2-year-old son of a woman friend of Crawford, a spokesman for the State Police Division of Criminal Investigation said.

The child was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center on Feb. 15 and diagnosed as having three skull fractures. He was transferred to St. Louis Children's Hospital the same day.

On Feb. 16, the Department of Children and Family Services reported the incident, which allegedly occurred in Venice, to law enforcement officials, the DCI spokesman said.

At the same time that Crawford was arrested by state police investigators, the deputy was suspended from duty, Sheriff Bob Churchich said April 4.

"We had the (suspension) document ready and the state police served the document suspending him without pay, pending disposition of the charge."

"We asked the DCI to expedite the case with (Crawford) being a member of this department and they agreed to cooperate," Churchich said.

The injured child is no longer in the hospital. Crawford has been a deputy for about four years, the sheriff said.

Crawford was released on $10,000 bond April 3 after a preliminary hearing in Madison County.

Weapon use nets charges

Michael Mayes, 31, of Lee Wright Homes was charged with unlawful use of a weapon and unlawful possession of cannabis when arrested March 27 on Weaver Street.

Mayes alleged to police that three men had threatened him. An officer talked with the men and one man said Mayes had a weapon.

Police Sgt. Birl Reed searched Mayes and alleged finding a butcher knife with a 12-inch blade and a small amount of a substance believed to be cannabis. Mayes was charged and released on recognizance, pending a hearing.

Damage to door alleged

Barbara Johnson, 29, of the 1300 block of Robin Street was charged March 27 with criminal damage to property after she allegedly ran onto a porch at the residence and swung a belt buckle, breaking the glass completely out of a storm door.

Fire in storage shed

Venice firefighters extinguished a storage shed fire March 24 at the home of Curtis King on Weaver Street. Children apparently set a box on fire in a barrel near the shed and the wind blew the flames, catching adjacent grass on fire and igniting the shed.

Man struck with gun

After seeing three men run from the Venice Liquor Store, 324 Broadway, and get into a car at 9:45 p.m. March 26, an officer talked with a man in the store while another officer followed the car south on South 4th Street, stopping the vehicle at Sixth Street.

Venice

just outside Brooklyn.

The three occupants were returned to Venice where Sydney McCormick of East St. Louis identified Kevin Johnson, 21, of the 100 block of Thomas Terry Apartments, Brooklyn, as the man who allegedly struck him with a gun at the liquor store. Johnson was booked for battery.

Melvin Emerson, 20, of the 100 block of Thomas Terry Apartments, who was driving the auto, was charged with illegal transportation of alcohol. The third man was not charged.

Johnson and Emerson posted $102 bail each and were released, pending April 22 court appearances in Granite City.

Rottweiler pup stolen

A 10-week-old Rottweiler puppy and a video cassette recorder were taken in a burglary at the home of Allen Glasper in the 600 block of Jefferson Avenue, it was reported March 26. The burglar gained entry by breaking the rear door.

Burglar takes television

A burglar broke a kitchen window to get into the home of Kim Young in the 900 block of Second Street and stole a television and a cable TV control box March 26.

Booked on two charges

After officers broke up a fight March 25 at Brown and Klein streets, sending those involved on their way, Ian P. Smith, 17, of St. Louis allegedly began yelling and cursing an officer and refused to leave.

Smith allegedly tried to escape from custody while being handcuffed, and struggled with two officers. He was charged with resisting arrest and disorderly conduct and was released after posting $102 bail.

Check for $86 stolen

Tracey Harrell of the Venice Homes reported March 18 that a check for $86 was stolen from a bedroom at her home.

Battery by man alleged Terrence King, 27, of the 100 block of Viola Jones Homes was charged with disorderly conduct and battery after Willie King of the same address alleged Terrence King struck him in the chest, stomach and face at 9:55 p.m. March 17. Willie King suffered cuts to the forehead and neck and had a knot under the right eye.

Terrence King allegedly tried to swing at an officer when told he was under arrest. He was released pending an April 21 court appearance.

Cannabis charge filed

An officer checking on the activities of two men seated in a car near Lee Park at 3:40 p.m. March 17 alleged a clear plastic bag containing a leafy substance was on the car seat.

Corbet D. Grandberry, 37, of St. Louis, one of the occupants of the vehicle, was charged with unlawful possession of cannabis. He posted $102 bail and was released pending an April 11 court appearance in Granite City.

Granite City

Protection order cited

A summons charging violation of an order of protection was issued March 29 against Mark S. Randall, 31, of the 2700 block of Michigan Avenue.

The summons was in response to an incident reported March 27 by Rebecca Randall, 26, of the 2200 block of Cleveland Boulevard. She said she and Mark Randall are in the process of divorce.

Rebecca Randall alleged he went to her home March 26 and argued; he threw and damaged a girl's 10-speed bicycle in the front yard.

Traffic warrant served

Public urged to attend museum's benefit dance

"American History in Song and Dance" is the theme of the fourth annual Spring Dinner Dance and Silent Auction to be held Saturday, April 22, at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Old Alton Road in Granite City.

The event is sponsored by Old Six Mile Historical Society, according to Lillian Delps, president. Shirley Adams, general chairman of the event, has announced that David Knollman, president of First Granite City Savings and Loan, is this year's honorary chairman. He will speak briefly about the museum.

Festivities will begin at 5:30 p.m. with cocktails (cash bar), a "silent auction" and the sale of homemade bakery products.

A buffet dinner, catered by Ravanelli's Restaurant, will be served at 6:30 p.m. Invocation will be given by James Engelke.

Entertainment for the evening will include Becky Miller's fifth-grade pupils from Niedringhaus School offering brief recitations entitled, "Historical Hysteria." The Grigsby Junior High School "Swing Choir," under the direction of Delores Barker, will present songs and dance to "Strike Up the Band," "Like an Eagle," and "Love in Any Language." The chief of police of Ferguson, Mo., Jimmy Carter, and his wife, Margo, known professionally as "The Lady and the Cop," will offer musical selections in an "American Potpourri." They also will furnish music during cocktails and dinner. The entertainment will conclude with the Kabuki Dancers from the Cahokia Mound's Interpretive Center.

The remainder of the evening will be spent dancing to the local John Fornaszewski Orchestra. All the proceeds from the affair will go towards the restoration and preservation of the society's museum, the "Emmert-Zippel House," located at 779 Maryville Road in Granite City, at the corner of Emmert Avenue and Stratford Lane.

Chairman Adams said the main goal of the society is to one day have the museum named "a National Historic Site," which would bring recognition and tourists from across the country. To gain that designation, however, she said one room on the second floor and the home's siding must be restored, as closely as possible, to the 1837 appearance, at a cost of $10,000. An additional $23,000 is owing on the mortgage, while another $2,000 is needed for payment of the installation of sewer lines on the property.

Tickets for the fund-raiser are $10.50 per person and may be purchased at First Granite City Savings and Loan, 1825 Delmar, 452-0467; or 1529 Johnson Road, 452-3717; Tops and Bottoms Shop, 19th and State Street, 676-7892; or by calling 797-0288 or 452-0967.

Raffle tickets for $1 each are also available. First prize is $100 worth of groceries; second prize, $50; and third prize, $25.

Dinner tickets will not be sold at the door. Reservations are necessary and should be made as soon as possible, Adams said.

The museum is open each Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m., from May until December. Special tours of 10 or more persons can be arranged, all year, by calling 931-3023.

Fund-raisers and memberships are the only means of support for the museum, which represents the towns of Granite City, Pontoon Beach, Madison, Mitchell and Venice. Anyone wishing to become a member, may do so by calling any of the above numbers.

Georgia Engelke is the society's funding.

Easter Seals will have crystal ball

Byron and Janice Farrell of Godfrey will serve as honorary hosts for the Easter Seal Society's Crystal Ball on Saturday, April 8, at Pere Marquette Lodge.

He is president of Heimkamp Construction Co. in Wood River, president of Lockhaven Country Club, immediate past president of the Leadership Council of Southwestern Illinois and served 17 years on the Board of Education for the East Alton-Wood River High School District.

His wife formerly taught at East Alton-Wood River High School, is a past member of the Junior League of Greater Alton, has served as organist at various churches over the past 25 years and has held many volunteer positions in community organizations.

This year will mark the 15th annual ball and benefit auction. The event will begin at 6 p.m. with cocktails and Dixie-land music. At 7, guests will dine on petite filets and red snapper in the newly-constructed Banquet Center.

An auction will feature more than 150 items, including a week-long trip to Ireland. Tickets are $50 per couple, $100 for two patrons, and $300 for a corporate table for eight, said a spokesman at the Easter Seal Society, 462-8897.

Federal spending here tops $650 million during last year

By Edward T. Hearn
P-R/J Washington bureau

WASHINGTON — Federal spending reached $1.01 billion in St. Clair County last fiscal year, and more than half the money went to support social programs for the poor, sick and elderly, the Census Bureau has just reported.

The Madison County total for October 1987 through September 1988 was $666.3 million.

In Monroe County, the figure was $65.1 million.

The bureau said all non-defense spending in St. Clair totaled $617.4 million, mostly for payments to Social Security, Medicare and food stamp recipients.

Defense Department spending, including contracts and salaries, was $386 million in the county.

Non-defense spending in Madison County was $558.2 million and $45.2 million in Monroe County was non-defense during the same period, the bureau said.

In a breakdown of the federal budget, the bureau said federal spending nationally was $884 billion for fiscal 1988.

Per capita federal spending was $3,545, a 3.3 percent increase over the year before.

The bureau's report, however, exempted all spending that pays to service the national debt — all federal deficits accumulated since 1789. The debt now totals $2.6 trillion.

Including debt service, total federal spending in fiscal 1988 was $1.05 trillion, although with a $155.1 billion deficit.

In 1988, the bureau said, federal all spending nationwide was $409 billion in support of the social safety net; $189 billion for Pentagon and agency contracts; $134 billion for federal salaries; $115 billion for state and local government grants; and $37 billion for research and agriculture grants.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

If a person's driver's license is revoked by the Illinois Secretary of State, he can obtain driving privileges in another state? If a valid license is issued by another state, does this end the Illinois suspension or revocation? These questions were answered in a recent case decided by an Illinois Appellate Court.

In this case, the defendant had his Illinois driver's license revoked by the Illinois Secretary of State in 1973. After this revocation, the defendant moved to Iowa, and he obtained an Iowa driver's license. His Iowa license expired in January of 1983, and in 1984 he moved back to Illinois. He never bothered to obtain another Illinois driver's license.

Illinois and Iowa are members of the Driver's License Compact, which is an agreement among various jurisdictions to report traffic offenses to the driver's home state. Thus if an Illinois resident is arrested for a moving violation in another state and is convicted on this charge, this conviction will be reported back to his home state if both states are members of the Driver's License Compact. Each state under the Compact also recognizes the acts of other member states in matters such as licensing drivers.

In the case noted above, the defendant was arrested while driving in Illinois in December of 1987. He was issued a citation for driving while his license was revoked. The defendant attempted to have the charge dismissed by noting that he had obtained an Iowa driver's license after his Illinois revocation. The State in this case argued that since the defendant's Iowa license had expired, the Illinois revocation was once again in effect. The defendant, on the other hand, argued that when a Compact state issued a driver's license to a suspended or revoked Illinois driver, the Illinois suspension or revocation was ended.

The Appellate Court in this case affirmed the decision of the trial court dismissing the case against the defendant. The Court felt that Iowa's decision to license the driver whose driver's license was revoked in Illinois ended the Illinois revocation. The Appellate Court felt that Illinois had a commitment to recognize the actions of a member state under the Driver's License Compact.

downtown store should come from Wal-Mart before the month's end.

Cruse also cited ongoing projects including the overall downtown development, the automotive center and the golf course. "We're going to start off with a roll and keep on going," Cruse said.

Warfield was cheered by several hundred of his supporters when he entered the Moose Lodge at about 8 p.m.

The only other time the crowd cheered was several hours later when it was announced that the figures previously announced, showing Warfield 600 votes behind, were wrong. He was only 100 votes back at that time.

From the first returns to Warfield's concession, the supporters never got word that Warfield, even for a short time, led the race.

Warfield thanked his supporters, assured them they had done all they could, and promised this was not "the end."

Neither was mayoral defeat the end for Archie Lupardus, the third candidate, who got 284 votes.

During a visit to Cruse's victory headquarters, Lupardus said he had run a good race and was "very happy with what went down."

But this election was not the end of Lupardus, he stressed. "This was just a stepping stone," Lupardus said. "Look for me again in four years."

Incumbent Gail Valle won the city treasurer race, getting 3,399 votes to 2,734 for Fry DeRousse and 1,064 for Paul Ray Bowler.

"Thank you friends," a teary-eyed Valle said to a cheering crowd after she had all but run away with the race. "This is really unbelievable."

Valle said her first priorities would be to "do what I said I'd do."

Valle said she hadn't had any doubts about being re-elected. While she said she was tired from the campaign, she was "ready to get the show back on the road."

DeRousse said he had run a clean campaign, looked hard and stayed independent. "What went wrong?" DeRousse asked. "I got whipped. But I'll land on my feet. Always on my feet."

Perjak: 'Voters did me a favor'

GRANITE CITY — Although an ardent Warfield backer, 4th Ward Alderman Sharon Perjak didn't go to the Moose Lodge to watch the election returns Tuesday night.

Dan Brown, who ultimately beat her in the election, was there.

"Yesterday afternoon I realized I don't want to be in politics in Granite City," Perjak said Wednesday. "The voters did me a favor."

"Do I sound bitter?" Perjak said she was at the 8th Precinct, Fourth Ward Alderman Dan Partney's precinct, when his brothers, Dave and Don Partney, came in to vote. Both were registered at 2500 Missouri Ave. — the address of Granite Sheet Metal, the family business.

"I made a scene," Perjak said. "Everybody knows they don't live there. Dave I could believe, but I could not believe Don. I told Don: 'I cannot believe you would stoop this low,' but he said he had done it for years."

Perjak said a call was made to County Clerk Evelyn Bowles and, after Dan and his wife Pam attested to the residency, the brothers were allowed to vote.

"I know it sounds like sour grapes. I know it won't change anything. 'But I think it's (wrong) and I'm headed to Edwardsville today to fill out whatever I have to fill out and see whoever I have to see.'"

"If I have to go to (State's Attorney) Bill Haine, I will. Hopalong, I will find out who I have to complain to, where I can go. I will make sure someone does something. "These are the things I have fought against for eight years. I said I'd rather fight than switch; I didn't switch and I got beat, no thanks to the paper. "Maybe it's what the people want, but it's not right."

Dan Partney said his brother Don had voted there for at least six years and that it was the only place he was registered to vote.

Dave Partney, Dan said, had used the address since becoming "rather mobile" after a divorce.

"Both of my brothers, they only get to vote once," Dan Partney said. "I really believe Donny was really embarrassed. "Well, let Sharon (complain). Her real problem is running third in a three-horse race."

looked surprised when he was declared winner after 11 p.m. Tinko will replace the retiring Brett Hanke.

In the 5th Ward Ginny O'Beard defeated incumbent Ralph Astorian and William Moreland. O'Beard polled 404 votes, Astorian, 324, and Moreland, 143.

O'Beard said, "I'm independent and I'm a fighter. I'm going to do what's right for the citizens. You watch me on the city council. You won't see me just following anyone."

Sixth Ward Alderman Judy Winkler beat challenger Bill Sago 997 to 775.

"You wouldn't believe what they threw at me," Winkler said. "I think I've done a good job and I think I've always done what's right, but I was still out there knocking on doors. You just never know."

Seventh Ward Alderman John "Jeff" Worthen won over Sandra Crites, 1,163-837. He said, "I'd like to thank all those who voted for me, allowing me to continue my work in the 7th Ward."

Running without opposition, City Clerk Robert Stevens totaled 8,203, Township Supervisor Nelson Hagnauer 7,642 and Assessor Darlene Laub 7,311.

extremely worried about retaining his seat. Even when 4th Ward Alderman Dan Partney, keeping track of the returns at the Moose, told Skubish he'd won, Skubish wouldn't believe it.

"Believe me, Casmer, you're in," Partney said. "Even if every registered voter in the last precinct voted against you, you've got him."

"I've just got to be sure. I want to see them all," Skubish said.

A third candidate in the 1st Ward, Joseph Swiger, polled 14 votes.

Newcomer Virgil "Virg" Kambarian won for 2nd Ward alderman, defeating Sam Rongey 829-412. Kambarian replaces retiring Pat Schuman.

"I look forward to working with the people of the 2nd Ward and want to thank all of the people who helped get me here," a soft-spoken Kambarian said.

In the 3rd Ward, Andy Tinko emerged the victor with 510 votes in a three-way race with Emmett Joe Williams and Alan Milton. Williams got 281 votes while Milton got 176.

Tinko eagerly watched as returns were posted throughout the evening and smiled triumphantly as they came in, placing him farther ahead. He still

Patterson slate sweeps Venice Township races

By Andy Sloring

VENICE TOWNSHIP — The whole ticket of the People's Party was elected Tuesday.

The ticket was headed by Trustee Richard "Poppy" Patterson (1,294 votes), who beat Madison Alderman Andy Economy (1,028) and Jim Riskovsky (515) for supervisor.

Also elected were Tax Collector C.S. "Casey" Krakowicki (1,714), who defeated Edmund Warchol (913); and Trustees Benjamin Honorable (1,734), John Piechocinski (1,750) and Joe Young Sr. (1,807).

Newly elected Joseph Asperger got the most votes, 1,822, of the candidates for four trustee posts.

Outgoing Supervisor Christ Pashoff, who chose not to run again for supervisor after he was not endorsed by the Madison and Venice city political organizations, sought election as a trustee; he received 1,236 votes but finished last.

Three incumbents were unopposed: Clerk William McGarran (2,018), Assessor Babette Mosby (2,249) and Highway Commissioner Eddie Lee Salsmond (2,282).

Economy alleged that Riskovsky entered the race for supervisor to draw votes from him.

Riskovsky, who was seen laughing late Tuesday night with Patterson at the Firemen's Hall, could not be reached for comment Wednesday. But Patterson said he thought Riskovsky was a serious candidate.

Said Patterson: "Jim spent a lot of money. You don't spend your own money when you're a spoiler. I don't know if he got a nickel from anyone. He was in this to win; there's no doubt about it."

But Patterson said he and Riskovsky had agreed that they didn't want Economy to win. "I told him, if I didn't win, I want ed (Riskovsky) to win."

Pashoff, who supported Economy and Warchol, said the election was lost because they did not have a full ticket. "You have to have a ticket to win."

"Andy (Economy) spent a lot of money down there, but Eagle Park Acres and Venice beat Andy."

Pashoff, supervisor for 16 years, said he wished the new township leadership well. "I don't have any animosity toward anyone," he said.

Economy blamed Salsmond for not supporting him. Economy told his supporters at about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday, Salsmond, who ran on the winning slate, said the voters had spoken and he had no further comment beyond that.

"I don't think I lost," Economy said early Wednesday morning. "I think the township did."

An exultant Patterson told supporters at the Firemen's Hall. "We're going to have some changes around here now!"

By Wednesday, Patterson was more subdued and said he was contemplating changing "a few minor things." He would not say what changes he would make.

"Christ (Pashoff) is still supervisor, and I don't want to get into it until I become supervisor," Patterson said.

Calling Pashoff a "good friend," Patterson said, "I never intended to run for supervisor. Christ was going to (run)."

He said all that changed last fall. "Some people were out looking for support when it became apparent that (many) wouldn't support Christ. Then my name was mentioned."

Patterson was backed by both Madison Mayor John Bellico and Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols. Echols alleged that Bellico had a grudge against him and that Bellico went along with Echols for the sake of inter-city unity.

One year later, resident makes return

After a one-year absence, Ruby McKemie is back in her home in Mitchell.

Exactly one year earlier, she and her daughter, Brenda Pritchett of St. Louis, departed for Florence, Ala., to visit Mrs. McKemie's parents, Andrew and Laura Hill and her sister, Chrystal Anderson, who had just broken her leg. When the travelers arrived at the Anderson home, they learned that Mrs. McKemie's house had burned about two hours after they had gone.

After a short visit with the relatives, they returned to what Mrs. McKemie described as a year-long nightmare. Her storage garage was burglarized and all of her tools were stolen and her car was vandalized on a parking lot.

Now, one year later, she has returned to her property to a new house with a new hope for a brighter future.

Marion Heidbrink was hostess for the Hills Terrace Birthday Club meeting on March 29. The birthday honoree, Juanita Barnes, was absent, but the hostess served lunch to Opal Davis, Thelma Morelan, Jeri Schied and Karen Orr and two guests, Rachel and Leah Jones, Heidbrink's grandchildren. Williams, Fletcher win in Venice city

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

VENICE — There were only two races in Venice — for alderman in the 2nd Ward — 225 to 150, Henry Fletcher narrowly beat incumbent Charles Haynes in the 4th Ward — 134 to 131. It could not be determined by press time whether Haynes will seek a recount of the close vote.

Mayor Tyrone Echols garnered 800 votes, Clerk Wilbert Glasper 802, Treasurer J. Alan Gardner also 802, 1st Ward Alderman Phillip White Sr. 124 and 3rd Ward Alderman John "Diddle" Erwin 229.

Williams, Young and Haynes could not be reached for comment. Fletcher said he would be working closely with Williams and another current alderman, Victor Valentine.

"I'm 100 percent in John Henry's corner," Fletcher said. "Whatever he wants, I'll push for."

Fletcher pledged also to "work with the mayor and the rest of the officials to help solve the problems of our city."

Granite City Fire Chief Charles Bernaix estimated damage at $600,000. The church has insurance that will cover that figure, he said. Bernaix said the fire was the worst since the Hardee's restaurant at Madison Avenue and 27th Street burned down two years ago.

St. Joseph's, a block away on Adams Street, offered free use of Emerson School, which it owns just north of the church on Benton. "I don't think we will accept the offer, but we appreciate it," Hunt said.

While there has been an outpouring of assistance, there has also been a negative development, Hunt said.

"We've just been flooded with these 'insurance consultants.' For a percentage of the insurance settlement, they'll deal with the insurance companies. They're like vultures," Hunt said. "I bet I've had a dozen call me."

Recurring Headaches

15,000,000 Americans suffer from recurring headaches. $300 million dollars are spent each year for headache remedies. Remedies that give temporary relief only. Headaches are only a symptom, a way of telling you that something is wrong. Unless the cause is corrected, headaches can lead to dizziness, eye and ear problems, high blood pressure, fainting spells, allergy, nervousness, and insomnia, which then leads to chronic tiredness and finally a nervous breakdown.

The neck and particularly the upper portion of the spine must be considered suspect in every case of recurrent headaches. Pick up the telephone NOW and make an appointment with...

City and mill had glossy beginning

Granite City is 93 years old; its centennial will be celebrated in 1996. But, this being the case, why does Granite City Steel trace its history to 1879?

The question comes up from time to time, so it might be fun today to explore the early years of this city's oldest industrial enterprise.

An integral part of that story is the Niedringhaus family, for which a local avenue, school and church are named.

KEY DATES related to Granite City Steel include 1857, when a tin shop was started in St. Louis; 1866, when the St. Louis Stamping Company was formed; 1878, when the Granite Iron Rolling Mills came into existence; 1892, when the Granite City Steel Works plant was begun; 1899, when the National Enameling & Stamping Co. was formed; 1927, when Granite City Steel Company Inc. was organized; and 1971, when Granite City Steel was merged into National Steel Corp.

Frederick and Marie Niedringhaus, parents of eight children and natives of Westphalia in Europe, immigrated to the United States in the 1850s. They had been preceded to this nation by four of their sons, Frederick W., Frederick G., William F. and Henry.

Frederick G. and William became apprentice tinner and roofers in an established St. Louis firm. In 1857, these two brothers formed their own business by starting a small tin shop at Second Street and Cass Avenue.

TINWARE TRADITIONALLY had been cut by hand and soldered together, but the brothers imported a machine that stamped out pots and pans from a sheet of tin plate. (See GRANITE, Page 4B)

Dixon: Base-closing savings could go to child development

WASHINGTON — Illinois Sen. Alan Dixon says he could speed funding of a child-development center at Scott Air Force Base by using the anticipated savings from the proposed closure of 86 obsolete U.S. military bases beginning in 1990.

Under the current plan, the Pentagon wants to begin building the Scott child center in fiscal 1991, which begins Oct. 1, 1990. But Dixon said that start date could be brought forward after consultation with the Senate Armed Services Committee.

"I suppose I would use those monies for other Illinois installations if I was able to do so, and obviously I have the first judgment call as chairman of the (Readiness, Sustainability and Support) subcommittee, but there are limitations to those things," Dixon said.

Last December, a special Pentagon commission recommended closing Chanute, Fort Sheridan and dozens of other U.S. bases, beginning in 1990.

Landfill options listed

By Craig A. Martin

STL affiliate

The average resident of the bi-state area throws away about one ton of trash every year. If that figure doesn't decrease, we may soon be overwhelmed by the refuse from our disposable society.

East-West Gateway Coordinating Council figures show that, at the current rate of disposal, St. Louisans have about eight years left until area landfills are full.

Now what?

"What we are encouraging as the best solution to the problem is to approach it at the regional level, rather than at the municipal level," said Lee Brotherton of Confluence St. Louis. "There has to be leadership in the area of lessening our dependence on landfills."

There are several solutions or partial solutions to overflowing landfills, including incineration, incineration with energy recovery, and recycling or resource recovery programs to reduce the volume of trash flow into the landfills.

Experts in the field agree that a combination of several types of programs would probably be needed to ease the St. Louis area's landfill crunch.

Cost figures for each of the alternatives vary greatly depending on the size and type of operation needed.

Incineration with incineration with energy recovery programs, however, are quite expensive to establish, usually running well into the tens of millions of dollars, said Mike Coulson of East-West Gateway.

None of the alternatives, however, can eliminate the need for landfills entirely.

"No matter how good your recycling or incineration programs are, there will always be residual waste, so there will always be the need for landfills," Brotherton said.

Another possibility is that existing landfill space could be expanded to help alleviate some of the upcoming space squeeze.

"Several landfills have land that they could expand into, but most are pretty secretive about expansion plans," Coulson said.

"Expanding is usually easier than getting a permit for a new landfill, but it is still very difficult, and there still would be space problems even if all of them expanded."

"Expansion will help, but it is definitely not enough," he said. But if volume is reduced, landfills will become less of a problem.

"Our figures show that extensive recycling programs can extend the life of a landfill by as much as 20 or 30 percent," said state Rep. Patrick Dougherty, D-4th Dist., chairman of the Missouri House of Representatives Energy and Environment Committee.

"I think we're starting to see a change in attitude both at the governmental level and at the individual level toward being more environmentally minded," Dougherty said.

Dougherty pointed to several items in the news recently that indicate the emergence of a trend toward conservatism, including concern over rain forests in South America, concern over the holes recently found in the earth's ozone layer, and discovery of the so-called greenhouse effect.

Brotherton is quick to point out, though, that none of the alternatives are inexpensive, and all have differing environmental concerns.

"All alternatives have problems," Brotherton said. "It's really a trade-off. It's tough to say that this program is better than that program, because it depends so much on where it is located."

Straight incineration programs simply burn refuse to reduce its volume, and energy recovery systems use the heat generated from the burning to produce energy, like any power plant.

Election leaves city poised for progress

There are many ways to interpret election results, but we regard the re-election of Mayor Von Dee Cruse as a vote for continued progress in Granite City. With the foundation now in place, his second four years in office can be even more productive than the first term.

Street Superintendent Mac Warfield, Cruse's principal opponent, was overly negative about the mayor's accomplishments and about the likelihood of the city achieving economic and employment gains. This approach was depressing and could have become self-fulfilling.

Instead, we urge officials and citizens to work cooperatively for constructive growth and for improved governmental services. A positive, forward-looking attitude is particularly important now that taxpayers have authorized a multi-million-dollar modernization of the flood protection system.

Our community and region are poised for perhaps an unprecedented era of revitalization and prosperity, and it would be tragic if Granite City missed out on it.

In other city election results Tuesday, Treasurer Gail Valle won decisively, reflecting solid public confidence in her ability to perform the duties efficiently—and in her willingness to consider implementing recommendations for additional monitoring procedures and fiscal controls.

Generally speaking, Granite City voters took a stand for a more effective City Council.

Three aldermen were re-elected: Jeff Worthen of the 7th Ward, Judy Whitaker of the 6th Ward and Casmer Skubish of the 1st Ward. Joining them on the council will be Virgil Kambarian in the 2nd Ward, Andrew Timko in the 3rd Ward, Dan Brown in the 4th Ward and Ginny O'Bear in the 5th Ward.

Voters made themselves heard

With ballots showing mostly unopposed incumbents in Chouteau, Nantooki and Granite City townships on Tuesday, voters made the expected choices, supporting further service in public office by knowledgeable, experienced leaders.

The fourth local township, Venice Township, chose Richard Paterson of Madison as the new supervisor and his ticket of candidates swept all the offices.

Not only did Madison Mayor John Belloff and Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols back the successful slate in Venice Township, but each of them was elected to a new term as mayor.

Belloff can work for continued municipal improvements in coordination with officials who were his running mates in the 1989 election.

Echols will need to take into account the views of two new aldermen who captured Venice City-Council seats.

In the Village of Pontoon Beach, four board posts were decided, with an incumbent re-elected and three new trustees elected from the party opposed to the incumbents. This can be advantageous if all the officials work for economic development while at the same time making sure the best possible plans and decisions are made by the village board.

Certainly, with Pontoon Beach boundaries greatly expanded in the past several years, new projects scheduled for the Illinois Route 111 area ought to proceed, as well as any reasonable proposals for the three Interstate 255 intersections within the village.

Park district voters re-elected a highly experienced commissioner, Barry Loman, in Granite City as well as two newcomers, Ron Parente of Granite City and Green Jacks of Venice.

And Madison County voters deserve a pat on the back for their 31,652 to 23,480 vote to establish an enhanced 911 emergency services telephone system.

Increase the minimum wage

Cost of living increases in the eight years since the last hike of the federal minimum wage have made another increase necessary. We like the proposed $4.55 figure.

While the increase could hurt some small businesses, the potential benefit to employees would more than outweigh business considerations. Some small-business men balk at the idea of an increase, but you can bet such cost would be quickly passed on to consumers.

The House bill would increase the minimum hourly wage first from $3.35 to $3.85 in October, then to $4.25 a year later, and to $4.55 in October 1991. Because of this incremental approach, businesses can better adapt budgets and other financial plans.

While an increase is appropriate, the bill does not go far enough. There are many jobs that now pay below the minimum wage, because of a variety of loopholes in the law. This bill will allow businesses with sales of $500,000 or less annually to be exempt from minimum-wage requirements, but we feel Congress should avoid this provision, and shore up other loopholes to make all businesses pay at least the minimum.

President George Bush supports a $4.25 minimum and $3.35 training wage for newly hired workers, levels which we feel are too low. But perhaps a transitional training wage would be appropriate, if there was a way of prohibiting employers from unscrupulously firing new workers following the transitional period.

The full Senate is expected to soon negotiate the issue. We urge members not to water down the result.

Tried to speak at council meeting

To the editor:

As a citizen of Granite City, I elected to address our City Council. I was required to follow certain guidelines and procedures, which I conformed with. When the city clerk announced my intentions, Alderman Fisk immediately voiced his objections and verbally attacked and abused me at length.

All through this barrage, Mayor Cruse sat by innocently as if nothing was happening. I stood by patiently, thinking he in time would take charge of the proceedings; he never did.

It took courage for me to stand in front of a large and unsympathetic group, mostly supporters of the mayor.

Thanks to those who had courage enough to prove they believed in democracy and in government answerable to the people, I was allowed to address the council, by a vote of 11-1. Mr. Fisk was the only alderman who voted against me.

I started my address and was immediately ruled out of order by the mayor for my rebuttal against Fisk, whereas Fisk was allowed to make numerous uncomplimentary remarks against me.

This was a rehearsed act. Mr. Fisk had a written script and the mayor allowed him the freedom to abuse a citizen and longtime taxpayer who enlisted in World War II to preserve democracy.

I may have erred but it was not necessary for the mayor to completely silence me, when corrective action would have sufficed.

As an executive board member of the Senior Council of our community, I have addressed the City Council on senior citizen affairs in the past, but never for any personal favors or gain.

From my past experience, I have learned there is a segment among the seniors in our community that keeps waiting for the mayor to fulfill his many campaign promises.

The good citizens compare our community with our neighboring cities and what the others have to offer and are doing for the senior citizens.

I was not surprised by Fisk's remarks, for in the past he has implied his dislike for our senior citizens. Summarizing the event that occurred on March 31, I feel that I was set up. The council chamber was full to capacity with city and township employees and local politicians, most displaying Von Dee Cruse campaign buttons.

Prior to the meeting, the mayor and Fisk had a private caucus. Alderman Fisk's savage remarks were read from a script, as was heard by the audience. The mayor and his political lieutenant may feel that they are in their glory and have displayed their might.

When elected officials support or defend the political structure with greater compassion than they do the principles of democracy, their political empire is in the day of doom.

In time, the power of the people will prevail; history repeats itself.

JOHN PETISH SR.

Praisers have short memories

To the editor:

In regard to Kim Pierson not knowing how to say "Thank you" to John Belloff for being her grandmother's friend:

Kim's attack on Belloff was her own personal opinion; it had nothing to do with family. Kim is a barmaid in Madison and felt she had a right to her own opinion of Belloff's complaints.

Belloff was good to Kim's grandmother for her vote and her support. Once she was dead and her vote no longer counted, where was Mayor Belloff?

The family asked for his help in getting a loan at the bank for Kim's grandmother's burial expenses. The loan was obtained at a Granite City bank. So what is Kim supposed to be so thankful for?

Kim, keep on working in Madison and if you have something to say, say it. If "bare facts" are what it takes to get eyes opened, perhaps someday we'll all consider baring a little something.

Toxic waste a union concern

To the editor:

In recent years our toxic waste and pollution have doubled gradually. I'm not blaming the companies such as they should try to modify or prevent it—by filtering out the dangerous chemicals or recycling.

They might be able to re-use it like aluminum, or ship it into space. This would reduce the dangerous chemicals that go into our air and water.

The major complaint is that it would be too expensive. My solution for this is for the management to explain their problems to the union, which should understand the situation. This could help with good will and legality.

The main reason for my concern for toxic waste and pollution is that it's been getting people sick. One chemical called benzene has been said to cause leukemia, and others may cause cancer.

With my advice, we might have healthier and cleaner air for generations to come.

Endorsing complicated

As you could guess, I've been asked a lot recently about how the paper arrived at the endorsements printed during the last few issues before the election.

We used a variety of methods, but that stock reply never seems to satisfy anybody (particularly the cynics who weren't endorsed). So I thought I would reflect a bit on the process.

First and foremost, the endorsements were ultimately my responsibility, as editor. Be assured, however, not one single recommendation was based on casual thought processes.

This year, the majority of our fact-finding research revolved around questionnaires sent to each candidate several weeks before the election. We designated a return date on those forms to give us and the candidate plenty of time to prepare. Unfortunately some candidates didn't bother to respond, even after a last-minute reminder phone call.

That scenario played a crucial role in some endorsements. If a candidate declined to share information about himself, the paper could not very well do so for him via an endorsement. Some officials probably deserved an endorsement by the sheer weight of their background. But they had to take the first step, before we could take the second.

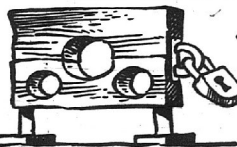

One woman candidate called to comment that while the paper had not endorsed her, it was even more unfair not to have at least included her name in the course of the editorial. I disagreed, explaining that the purpose was to push what we thought were the best candidates, not to confuse voters with extra names. She made a good point, however, and I'll continue to consider it.

Because many of the candidates were newcomers, I was unfamiliar with some. However, I huddled with other members of the staff, and closely read the campaign stories and statements before drawing any conclusions.

Lastly, the endorsement wording seemed particularly harsh or negative to some. That is because I felt it was impossible to render an opinion without being frank about candidates, their strengths and weaknesses.

Newspaper endorsements are only educated recommendations, not gospel. The public still is the ultimate judge.

Granite K mart remodels, cuts some prices

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The K mart store, 3655 Nameoki Road, is in the middle of a $1-million refurbishing that should be largely complete by May 1, said Manager Mike Stolze.

As part of the renovation, everyday prices have been reduced on 4,000 of the store's 55,000 items — primarily on drugs and housewares, Stolze said. The price on disposable diapers, for example, has been reduced about 17 percent.

The renovated store now has wider aisles in most departments, an expanded deli/snack bar area, and expanded and glitzier women's fashion and accessories departments. Stolze said the store had been scheduled for renovation for five years.

Clothing prices have not been reduced, he said, because the chain is "already very competitive" with other discount retailers.

Stolze said consumer research has shown that the typical shopper (a 35-year-old woman) wants lower prices and wider aisles.

Stolze said the chain has engaged the Wal-Mart discount chain in a battle for customers. "We're attempting to meet and beat Wal-Mart," Stolze said.

Although there is currently no Wal-Mart in Granite City, city officials have been wooing the discount giant to bring a Wal-Mart to Madison Avenue and 20th Street downtown. Stolze acknowledged that the possibility of Wal-Mart coming here entered into the store's decision to remodel and to cut prices.

There is also an element of intramural competition, Stolze said. He said some residents of Granite City were shopping at the K marts in Edwardsville and Fairview Heights because those stores had already lowered prices on some items.

He said K mart regularly checked prices at other retailers such as Venture, Target and Sears to ensure it was competitive.

"It's something the industry as a whole is doing," he said. "Everybody's dropping their prices."

And, he said, "As in the past, if somebody else has a cheaper price on an item, we'll be glad to match it."

The Granite City K mart is 16 years old, Stolze said.

"K mart is just trying to say to Granite City, we're happy for the business it has already given us, and we want to keep it."

Business briefs

Seitz replaces Cross at National Super Markets

Harold A. Seitz has been named president of National Super Markets, a position in which he will oversee operations of stores in the St. Louis and New Orleans divisions of the company.

Seitz replaces Al Cross, who retired Feb. 1 as senior vice president of National Super Markets after a 47-year career with the company.

Under the leadership of Cross, 62, National grew steadily from a company employing 600 people to an employer of more than 7,000 workers.

Cross became a well-known personality during the past few years as a spokesman for President's Choice products in television commercials and in a printed Insider's Report distributed by National. Seitz will move to St. Louis from New Orleans, where he has served as division manager for the company.

Home care service offices move to Wellness Center

Home care services at St. Elizabeth Medical Center now have a new home to call their own. The Home Health and At-Home Professional Care offices have moved from the main medical center to the third floor of the Wellness Center, 2103 Iowa St. in Granite City.

"It came down to a lack of space," said Carla Burian, director of Home Health. "Our department has grown so much that we had no place to put the extra personnel."

"We had eight nurses sharing one room in our old offices. I was wanted to do something, they had to get everyone else to get up and move. As soon as all the renovations are finished, we will have space for everyone."

"Maintenance, Housekeeping, Purchasing... everyone who has worked on this had done a beautiful job," Burian said. "They completely renovated three empty, dusty storage rooms into beautiful office space."

Other than their address, nothing has changed.

Home Health will still provide skilled services in the home for patients with acute or unstable conditions. Skilled services are ones that require a professional to perform them. Home Health offers the services of registered nurses, physical therapists, occupational therapists, speech therapists, social workers and Home Health aides.

At-Home Professional Care associates still help to maintain a patient in the home once the condition is stable.

They offer registered nurses and licensed practical nurses who provide skilled care for the stable patient on a long-term basis. Nurse aides are available to help with the patient's personal care, bathing and some nursing procedures.

Companion homemakers do not help with medical or personal needs. They fulfill the social needs of the patient by providing companionship. They also assist with safety needs, transportation, housekeeping and laundry.

Home Health may be reached by calling 798-3200; At-Home Professional Care can be called at 798-3900.

Business seminars offered

The Southwestern Illinois Small Business Development Center, based at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, will conduct two seminars during the spring particularly for women business owners or entrepreneurs.

A workshop on "Small Business Ownership for Women" will be held May 13, and a workshop on "Operating a Home-Based Business" is scheduled June 3.

Both workshops will be held in the conference area of the University Center, meeting from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. Registration for either workshop is $35.

The center also has served as one of the sponsors of "Smart Business '89" of the St. Louis Chapter of the National Association of Women Owners, April 7-9.

This year's "Smart Business" program consists of three days of seminars, opportunities for networking, and mentor sessions. Seminars include such topics as buying a business or franchise, business plans, creating a positive business image, accounting basics, pricing, public relations, legal basics, team building, business ethics, tax benefits, business writing, marketing, and expansion strategies.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Mitchell Horsely or Arnold Franke at the SUE Southwestern Illinois Small Business Development Center, 602-2929.

Industrial Yellow Pages have new look

Buyers and sellers of industrial products and services will find new features added to the 1989 Illinois/Wisconsin Ameritech Industrial Yellow Pages when it begins its arrival at businesses.

For the first time, the directories have been shrink-wrapped, which ensures their good condition upon arrival.

Tom Kaeding, president of Ameritech Industrial Yellow Pages, said the 1989 editions feature a map in the lower right-hand corner of the front cover which illustrates regional coverage.

The map shows that the directories cover all of Illinois; Green Bay, Madison and Milwaukee in Wisconsin; South Bend and Lake County in Indiana; and St. Louis in Missouri.

The pages are targeted to buyers and sellers of industrial products and services including firms engaged in manufacturing, distribution, wholesaling, contracting and construction. Distribution is specifically targeted to the industrial user by Standard Industrial Codes.

... Containing more than 4,500 headings covering everything from Abrasive Blasting Equipment to Zirconium.

Each directory is divided into two sections: alphabetical white pages and products and services yellow pages, which contain more than 4,500 headings covering everything from Abrasive Blasting Equipment to Zirconium.

A total of 100,000 copies will be distributed free of charge to qualified industrial buyers over the next few weeks.

Ameritech Industrial Yellow Pages publishes 12 regional directories covering 26 states from Maine to Illinois, and California. It is a subsidiary of Ameritech Publishing Inc., provider of Ameritech Pages-Plus directories in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin.

New president, officers selected by Gateway BPW

Ruth Nicholas was elected president of the Gateway Business and Professional Women's Organization at the March 22 dinner meeting, held at Brenda's Restaurant in Madison.

The slate of officers was presented by a nominating committee chaired by Donna Hogan and including Pat Thomas and Juanita Williams.

Others elected to serve for the 1989-90 year were Barbara Hodges, vice president, Pat Thomas, secretary, and Donna Hogan, treasurer. Installation ceremonies are planned for the May meeting.

President Dorothy Elmore presided at the business session and introduced new members Diana Becke, Ruth Marcum and Donna Schmid. They will be formally initiated at the April 26 meeting.

Reports were submitted by Debbie Geggus, protest secretary for February, Susie William, secretary who read communications from the state and national offices, and Pat Anderson, treasurer.

LaVelle Stephens reviewed the spring district meeting, noting that Betty Kelly of Alton was elected president of District 14 and Sylvia Fashae of Granite City will serve as the new district treasurer.

A leadership conference is scheduled for June 4 at the Ramada Inn in Mount Vernon for all newly elected BPW officers, Mrs. Stephens said.

Ruth Nicholas reviewed proposed changes in BPW state bylaws to be voted on at the state conference April 14-16 in Chicago.

Members approved a revised budget presented by Ollie Derr. Elmore appointed Mrs. Derr, Shirley Rapoff and Mrs. Geggus to serve on the auditing committee, set to meet prior to the installation, and named Ollie Derr and Ruth Nicholas as delegates to the state convention.

Madison Federal employees attend UI career training

Two employees of Madison County Federal Savings and Loan Association have completed a training program for savings institution personnel at the University of Illinois, Champaign/Urbana.

Gary Reynolds, vice president and treasurer, and Louise Rinkel, a financial services representative at the Troy office, were among 110 who participated in the professional growth session.

The session is sponsored twice a year by the university and the Illinois League of Savings Institutions.

The program, known as the Career Development School, was held March 19-22.

The school engages students in a three-year track of lectures, panels and workshops intended to give those attending a broader perspective of the business and to further develop their professional skills for future responsibilities.

Granite

Their shiny, lightweight kitchen utensils were superior to the cast-iron pots then in use. In 1866, they incorporated the St. Louis Stamping Co. and began operating a series of small presses to make utensils. Their hard labor and growing managerial expertise enabled them to prosper, but William lost his health due to overwork and was advised by a doctor to travel and seek new interests. While in Europe in the late 1860s, he noticed a store window with kitchen items that were coated with a glossy substance.

IT WAS AS SMOOTH as "frozen satin," he found. The proprietor agreed to sell him the secrets of the process. Spending several weeks in the factory there, Niedringhaus learned all the ingredients of the enamel and studied how it was applied to sheet iron.

He brought detailed notes back to St. Louis and joined with his brother to patent a method of producing "granite ware," so called because ground-up granite was the basic material in the enamel.

Sales doubled and redoubled as housewives sought the high-quality dinner plates and pans.

Production and sales increased, and the brothers began planning for further expansion of their business.

BROUGHT FROM WALES, sheet iron was used extensively in creating granite ware. It was the brothers' custom to purchase an extra year's supply with each order of sheet iron. The wisdom of this policy was borne out in 1877, when the Welsh mill was destroyed by fire.

The next year, they assured their source of supply by building the Granite Iron Rolling Mills at Second and Destrahan streets in St. Louis. And to assure that they maintained the same quality, they imported skilled Welsh craftsmen.

Many of the Welsh workers' descendants still live in St. Louis and Granite City.

WHAT DID IT TAKE in those days to conduct iron rolling operations? Start off with three each of heating furnaces, hammers, pan furnaces and sheet furnaces.

Add a five-inch bar mill, two 30-inch sheet mills, a 28-inch sheet mill, a coal mill, nine charcoal fires, two puddling furnaces and an annealing furnace. They installed six tin mills in 1888 and added galvanizing pots in 1890.

IT WAS THIS company, dating back to 1878, that accounted for the founding date of the modern steelmaking company here.

Frederick G. Niedringhaus was the first president, and William Niedringhaus was the vice president and manager. And it was the name of the 1878 St. Louis firm, Granite Iron Rolling Mills, that led to the naming of Granite City years later.

ELECTION TO CONGRESS in 1888 caused Frederick to move to Washington, but William supervised production and also devoted much time to research, hoping to apply enamel to steel.

The result was enamel that expanded and contracted at the same rate as sheet steel. With this breakthrough, the brothers installed an open hearth furnace to manufacture steel. Anticipating an increase in business because of the 1890 Tariff Act — "protective in every paragraph and American in every line" — they considered adding to their St. Louis plants. But land values were high and a needed street vacating could not be obtained.

A NEW CITY could be created in Illinois, where adequate land could be obtained inexpensively, they reasoned. William's son, George W. Niedringhaus, became involved in the search for an appropriate site.

The Merchants' Terminal Railroad had been organized and its Merchants' Bridge, a railroad-only bridge now linking St. Louis and Venice, already was under construction, assuring reliable access.

Crossing the Mississippi River on the North Market Street Ferry in August 1891, the Niedringhauses drove over Old Alton Road and crossed the Chicago & Alton and other railroad tracks at Kinder Station (now the Nied-ringhaus Avenue crossing).

THEY LIKED what they saw, and the rest is history. George Niedringhaus recalled:

"The farms all seemed to be kept in excellent condition. We drove to a point, probably attracted by a beautifully formed elm tree over four feet in diameter. We spent some time in looking over the property from this point, and I recall my father's remark that this would be an ideal site for the city such as we contemplated."

They hired Mark Henson, a local school teacher, as their land agent and 3,500 acres were acquired in 1892.

Scientific American concluded at the time that "the location of a steel plant in Granite City, as well as for other manufacturers, is unsurpassed. Coal will cost about one-third the price (paid) in Wales. The leading railroad systems of the country connect at this point, and labor is plentiful and of a high grade."

If there had been a Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce at the time, its leaders surely would have smiled when they read that.

April showers may bring car accidents

The following article is by Secretary of State Jim Edgar.

When a spring shower suddenly develops, motorists should drive with care because roads are the most slippery as the rain begins to fall.

Surface oil and grease form a slick film that is not washed away until after 20 or 30 minutes of hard rain.

Hydroplaning, which is caused by speeding or too little tire pressure or tread, occurs at about 35 miles per hour when tires begin to lose contact with the road surface.

At speeds up to 35 mph, most tires "wipe" the road like a windshield wiper. However, as the speed increases, tires actually ride up on a thin layer of water like a set of water skis.

Partial hydroplaning begins on most cars at about 35 mph and increases with speed to about 55 mph, when the tires may be completely up on water.

If you start to skid at speeds less than 35 mph, you should be able to regain control by taking your foot off the accelerator and letting the car slow down. Steer in the direction you want the front of the car to go.

Soon you can celebrate a birthday without a birthmark.

If you were born with a birthmark, you've probably had times when you fervently wished it would go away.

But up until now, your treatment options brought along with them the real risk of scarring. Effectiveness was uncertain, and children could not be treated.

Now DePaul Health Center offers a new way to treat the port wine stain, a deep red or crimson stain that is one of the most common birthmarks.

DePaul's pulsed yellow-dye laser is the first one in St. Louis, and one of only seven such lasers in the country. It is the first laser which can be used with almost no danger of scarring, and does not require anesthesia except for treatments to the very young. In fact, it is now possible to eradicate port wine stains on children before they reach school age, and before they begin to suffer the psychological trauma often associated with these birthmarks.

Also, lesions below the head and neck, which did not respond well to previous methods of treatment, can now be treated successfully.

What's more, these laser treatments can be spaced only 10 to 12 weeks apart, rather than the usual six-month interval. This means that the entire therapy may be completed in a year, versus two or three years previously.

Start your treatment now, and chances are your birthmark will be significantly less noticeable by your next birthday.

The new pulsed yellow-dye laser.

A BIZARRE NEW LIFE FORM transforms the world of a deep-sea expedition into a living nightmare in "Leviathan."

'Leviathan' not a great film, but it's definitely shocking

The undersea adventure "Leviathan" makes a man think about throwing away his scuba diving gear and taking up golf, dealing as it does with miners working for a multinational corporation and plundering the ocean bottom for precious metals.

"Leviathan" is not a great movie, despite its high-tech hardware and pricey special effects. The story about the perils of fooling around with Mother Nature doesn't hang together very well. The acting is routine, the dialogue ludicrous and if scenes of zapping, snaggle-toothed beasts give you the heebie-jeebies, forget it.

There are, however, moments in "Leviathan" when director George Cosmatos does manage to shock the shorts off the audience in this scientific thriller set in what Cosmatos calls "the near future."

The David Peoples-Jeb Stewart screenplay plunks eight men and women working for the Tri-Oceanic Corp. in Shack 7, an undersea residence made of spun-molded steel. It harbors all manner of ghastly genetic secrets that later come to light in Shack 7, which subsequently becomes home to a fish-like creature with a gilled head, long spiked teeth, a scaly body, a tail formed from human legs, and a healthy appetite for blood.

The actors who may, or may not, be eaten by this thing in what amounts to a survival drama, include geologist-shack boss Peter Weller, a research-prone mouse the company is training to become an executive rat; Richard Creans, a down-on-his-luck medical researcher serving as the shack physician; ambitious lady miner Amanda Pays; boozier Daniel Stern; and Ernie Hudson playing a simple fellow eager to build a home in the suburbs.

Miner Michael Carmine hopes to retire to Switzerland's ski slopes, Lisa Eilbacher is studying the shack's computer system figuring it will help her make money in stocks, and Hector Elizondo, just like Jules Verne believes that life is richer 20,000 leagues under the sea.

Rated R (language, violence). Running time: 97 minutes.

Director George Cosmatos finds man-nature struggle appealing

By Frank Hunter
Staff affiliate

Film director George Cosmatos sounds like a jolly sort on the telephone, not the kind of fellow prone to gloomy pondering about the future and thoughts that man is his own worst enemy.

But he added some of his own dark philosophical musings to "The Cassandra Crossing," a 1977 picture with Sophia Loren, Richard Harris, Burt Lancaster and Ava Gardner that dealt with a man-made bacteriological plague. Critics hailed him for making a "thinking-man's disaster movie."

With his latest picture "Leviathan," Cosmatos maintains his view that people always are more interesting than the events that overtake them.

The film is about eight men and women working for the Tri-Oceanic Corp. in Shack 7, an undersea residence made of spun-molded steel. While combining the earth's crust for silver and other precious metals, the group ends up encountering a fish-like creature with a gilled head, long spiked teeth, a scaly body, a tail formed from human legs, and an appetite for blood.

"I like films where men are fighting against nature, like the old 1950s movie 'Them,'" Cosmatos said. "The idea of people messing around with the order of things in the universe has always appealed to me. And I thought 'Leviathan' would be fun and a challenge."

"I had never directed a true sci-fi film before and the idea of doing it with a bunch of actors without guns appealed to me, especially as the characters find themselves in a big mess down below."

Cosmatos said audiences usually will flock to pictures in which big corporations and high-powered executives are the evildoers, as in "Leviathan."

Stan Winston, who designed the creatures in the second "Alien" film and "The Terminator," created the thing that wreaks so much havoc in the Shack 7 compound.

"Winston came up with a real mean-looking fish with long teeth and the slick, slithering movements of a snake," Cosmatos said. "Then he surrounded it with ooze and added the terrified faces of victims who are barely living and form the rest of the creature's torso. Adding the human faces makes it even more hideous—it's always it bit more distressing to see the face of someone you know who is slowly digested by an alien being."

The director said people between the ages of 15 and 25 are the big audience for thrillers such as "Leviathan."

"They know its all phony stuff, but they don't seem to mind watching scenes where movie victims suffer and die. I don't know what that tells us about kids today except that they have an odd notion of what constitutes wholesome fun. But in directing something like 'Leviathan' my job is to create an emotional roller-coaster ride, a shock film that makes people want to hide their eyes."

"Leviathan," filmed in California, Mexico, Malta and Italy, cost more than $21 million to make, with much of the budget allocated to labor and material costs for the settings and special effects.

Cosmatos studied international law at London University during the day and attended the National Film Theatre School at night before his first directing assignment, 1972's "Massacre in Rome."

He later directed "Rambo II" and "Cobra" and worked on "Exodus" and "Zorba the Greek."

He will not direct a "Leviathan" sequel because he doesn't like repeating himself.

The Canadian-born Cosmatos hopes to make a film using a flock of United States locations, and he recalled lecturing to a film class at Washington University in 1976 when "The Cassandra Crossing" was released.

"I loved St. Louis, one of the most beautiful American cities I've ever visited."

He is married to a sculptress and the couple has a 15-year-old son, Pan, who wants to work in films. Cosmatos is doing his best to change Pan's mind.

"He wants to be a director but I keep telling him he's crazy," Cosmatos said. "Making movies and being lectured to is fun. But waiting to read what the critics write is the pits."

"Whoever said you're only as good as your last picture" applies to directors as well as actors.

'Sing' more music video than real motion picture

"Sing" easily could be one of the worst films of 1989 to be a big hit.

Set deep in the heart of Brooklyn, "Sing" (R) is billed as a contemporary performance musical about a decaying neighborhood and the local high school that is about to be closed.

The film also is about a real-life high school competition actually called Sing that previously has featured teen talents who have gone a long way as adults. That list includes such celebrities as Tim Robbins (who starred with Kevin Costner in "Bull Durham"), record producer David Geffen, and recording artists Neil Diamond, Barbra Streisand, Neil Sedaka, Art Garfunkel and Paul Simon. It also includes "Sing" co-producer Neil Meron.

Several of the songs from the soundtrack already are making their way up the music charts. "Birthday Suit" by Johnny Kemp and "You Don't Have to Ask Me Twice" by Nia Peeples, to name just two. Garfunkel sings a song on the soundtrack. A local record-store manager says the title song, sung by Mickey Thomas of Starship, probably will be a big hit. None of this is surprising — "Sing" is more a filmed music project than a real motion picture.

Lorraine Bracco heads a basically no-name cast as Miss Lombardo, a part-time teacher who comes back to her old neighborhood to run the current Sing competition between the junior and senior classes of Midwood High School.

Early in the film, Lombardo is the victim of an attempted mugging while waiting for a cab. The mugger turns out to be Dominic Zametti (Peter Dinklage), a neighborhood tough guy. Dobson is an actor with such soft facial features that it is hard to believe he ever did a thing tougher than spend a day in a make-up trailer.

Jessica Stern plays Hannah Gottschalk, a virtuous young senior at Midwood who teams with Miss Lombardo to organize and direct the Sing competition. Louise Lasser, of "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" television fame, returns to movies in the role of Hannah's mother. Hartman does a poor job, but it is evident she has been eating well. Hartman's weight looks to be around 200 pounds.

The scripting of "Sing" is the worst, and features laughable lines like, "Oh yeah, who died and made you dance maven?" There are times when this movie evokes laugh-out-loud responses that were not intended and the acting is embarrassingly bad. Singer Patti LaBelle has a small role as a teacher, Mrs. DeVere, and she gets to belt out one number in the film.

"Sing" features a cast of 90, including 38 dancers. When the Sing competition begins, the kids' high-school show all of a sudden turns into a musical spectacular that looks like it was produced by the Shubert brothers — Lee, Sam and Jacob — when they ruled Broadway.

Rated PG-13 (language). Running time: 101 minutes. Rating based on four stars.

Students at SIUE pay larger share of costs

Students at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville are paying a much larger share of the cost of education as state funding has shrunk, university officials said.

Money from tuition and fees is up 113 percent this year compared to 1980, while state support for higher education rose only 34 percent in the same period, said John Reiner, director of planning and resource management at SIUE.

Tuition for SIUE undergraduates is $1,400 this year, up 15 percent from last year and 147 percent from 1980, when tuition was $567.

Tuition will go up another 4 percent next year, Reiner said.

The decrease in the proportion of state support has a direct impact on the quality of education at SIUE and all other state universities, said Earl Lazerson, SIUE president.

"The most important areas affected are those that are the central purposes of our existence — teaching and learning," said Lazerson.

SIUE is having trouble offering salaries that compete with other schools of its kind, he said.

An average salary for a professor at SIUE this year is $33,800, 7 percent below what similar schools nationwide offer, said Reiner.

In 1980, the average SIUE salary was $22,400, or 3 percent more than competing schools.

The school is having trouble affording new equipment, new library books and keeping up maintenance on buildings.

"The tools of learning have been affected," Lazerson said.

Reiner said tuition increases have allowed SIUE to keep its doors open, but the school has been unable to take any new directions because it doesn't have the equipment.

"We can't teach people to go out and work with it if we don't have it," he said.

Reiner said the tuition increases have not yet hurt the ability of lower income students to attend SIUE, but he is not sure if that will continue to be the case.

"At some point you know it's going to happen," he said.

A report issued this week by state Comptroller Roland Burris shows tuition and fees at Illinois' public universities rose nearly three times as fast as state support for higher education over the last decade.

The comptroller's report noted that state support for higher education increased about 58 percent in the last nine years, while the average tuition and fees at the state's public universities rose 150 percent during the same period.

During the period, state tax money spent on higher education increased from $799 million to nearly $1.3 billion.

The state Board of Higher Education is asking legislators to increase state aid to colleges and universities by $305 million, or nearly 25 percent, in the fiscal year that begins July 1.

Richard Wagner, executive director of the Board of Higher Education, renewed the board's call for an income tax increase that has been rejected by the Legislature in each of its last two sessions.

SIUE to host computer camps for children

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will again offer a series of computer camps this summer for children ages 7-16.

Sponsored by the School of Education, the day camps are scheduled June 19-30, July 10-21 and July 24-Aug. 4. Classes meet from 9 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. each day.

Registration is $150, which includes a non-refundable application fee. Students must provide their own lunches.

Children are grouped according to age and computer experience, for highly individualized instruction on Apple computers.

Several computer languages will be available, including Logo, Basic, and Pascal, as well as Wordstar and Appleworks.

All participants will receive a copy of Logowriter for their use at home and school.

In addition to three hours of computer instruction each day, students will spend three hours in recreation.

Swimming, tennis, soccer, softball and hiking will be among the recreational activities available.

In addition to beginning programs, each camp section will feature opportunities for advanced students.

Appleworks, a software package containing a word processing program, data base system and spreadsheet, will be available for use only during the June 19-30 session.

An introduction to Pascal is scheduled only during the July 10-21 session. Students choosing this option should have some computer background.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Don Baden in the SIUE School of Education at 692-3430.

POC hunter safety course next week

Area residents will have an opportunity to learn basic principles of safe hunting at a Department of Conservation hunter safety course scheduled from 6 to 9 p.m. April 13 and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. April 15 at the VFW Hall, 21st and Washington, in Granite City.

A 1976 state law requires that all hunters under 16 successfully complete the hunter safety course before receiving their first hunting license. Participants completing the course receive a Hunter Safety Certification verifying they have passed the course.

"This will be an excellent opportunity for young hunters who need the course in order to qualify for their first hunting license," said Bill Sinkus of the Town & Country Gun Club. "It also can be beneficial for beginning hunters older than 16, even though they do not require the course to be eligible for a license."

The 10-hour course includes instruction in wildlife management, firearms safety, hunter ethics, game identification, first aid, survival techniques and regulations.

For more information, contact the coordinating instructor at 876-7923.

Prairie State Games ready for sixth year

Preliminary competition for the sixth annual Prairie State Games will be held from mid-May through late June in 25 communities throughout Illinois.

Qualifying athletes representing the state's eight regions will compete in the finals July 13-16 in Champaign-Urbana. Appearing in last year's basketball competition were players like Larry Smith, Steve Bardo, Kenny Battle, Nick Anderson, Kendall Gill and Marcus Liberty of the University of Illinois; Byron Irvin of the University of Missouri; David Booth of DePaul; and Eric Anderson of the University of Indiana.

Games alumni also include contenders in basketball, boxing, weightlifting and women's volleyball at the 1988 Seoul Olympics. The Prairie State Games give athletes the chance to maintain their edge during the summer. There is competition in 16 events — archery, athletics (track & field), basketball, diving, fencing, gymnastics, judo, shooting, soccer, swimming, the 10K road race, tennis, volleyball, weightlifting, wheelchair basketball and wrestling.

There is no admission charge for the finals. For more information about activities in the area, call 1-800-THEGAME.

Summer basketball camps held at BAC

Belleville Area College will hold a series of basketball camps for junior high boys, and junior high and high school girls this summer at the BAC gym, 2500 Carlyle Road in Belleville.

The camps for boys in grades 5-8 will be the weeks of June 5, June 12, July 3, July 24 and July 31. The camp for girls in grades 5-8 will be June 26-30. The camp for girls in grades 7-10 will be July 10-14.

Sessions at all camps are Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and Friday from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. Camp competition and awards will be each day from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

The cost is $45 per student and should be submitted as soon as possible. The fee includes camp shirt, awards and basketball literature. Fees of $40 per student are available for groups of five or more. Please state on the application the name of the group. Registration is on a first-come, first-served basis. Game raises $1,275 for Batten's Disease

The Granite City Firefighters and District 9 faculty helped raise $1,275 to benefit research into Batten's Disease at a benefit basketball game Tuesday.

The game was played in Memorial Gymnasium at Granite City High School. The Firefighters defeated the faculty 54-51. Travis Pennekamp, 8, formerly of Granite City, suffers from Batten's Disease, which brings about premature aging in children.

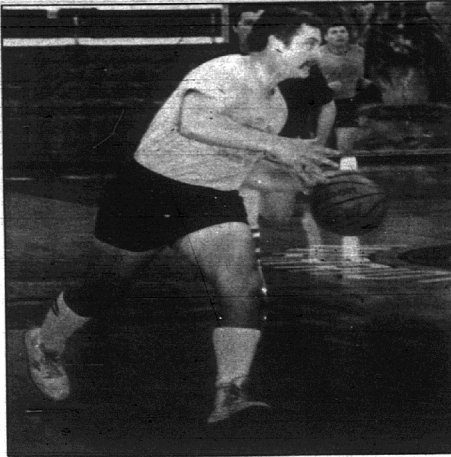

Firefighters who participated included Mike Richardson, Ed Hagnauer, Vince Martinez, Tim Connolly, Gene Livingston, Jeff Reiter, Dan Shurtz, Dave Houston, Sam Nesbit and Greg Nighobossian. District 9 faculty members, who played in the game included Ron Yates, Al Lobdell, Dave McClain, Rich Essington, Don Deterding, Mike Garland, Mike Loftus, Mike Edwards, Roy Logan and Greg Patton.

Gus Lignoul and Dave Price served as officials.

The Firefighters wish to thank Patton and Al Kennerly from the high school staff for making the event a success. Thanks also go to several other businesses and individuals who contributed.

Halftime entertainment was provided by the Mitchell and Daniel's School of Tae Kwon Do, arranged by Ed Mitchell.

Through the efforts of Granite City Attorney Mark Goldenberg, Travis will also receive an autographed basketball signed by players and coaches of the University of Illinois basketball team, national semifinalists. Due to the Fighting Illini's participation in the Final Four, the ball

New 65,000-watt sound system among improvements at Busch

By Ted Radick
Staff affiliate

As fans walk into Busch Stadium on April 14 to watch the 1989 edition of the Cardinals on Opening Day, a gleaming, improved ballpark, complete with stocked concession and souvenir stands, will await them.

But the biggest improvement in the stadium is not something that fans will necessarily see, but rather hear.

A new, state-of-the-art hi-fidelity sound system has been installed, and Jeff Wehling of Fleishman-Hillard Inc., which handles public relations for Civic Center Corp., says the new system will be a dramatic improvement.

"The system is computer controlled, and basically a broadcast station was built to control it," Wehling said. "The computer monitors crowd noise and makes volume adjustments according to noise in different areas of the stadium."

"And although vacant areas are rare at Cardinal games, the sound can be turned off in areas that aren't being used to improve the sound quality for the rest of the fans."

That eliminates annoying delays and echoes that were prevalent when the sound system featured a bank of speakers in center field. The new system will employ more than 1,000 speakers placed all over the stadium, resulting in higher quality sound and better synchronization with action on the video boards.

The new system is more than seven times as powerful as the old one, featuring 65,000 watts of power, compared to the old system's 9,000 watts. More than 30 miles of cable was used in wiring up the system.

Besides the sound system, other areas of Busch are being spruced up for Opening Day. Several dozen painters are busy putting more than 2,000 gallons of paint on areas that need touch-ups, and seats, floors and restrooms have been cleaned with high-pressure steam cleaners.

"It's a very time consuming process," Wehling said. "There's a lot of overtime involved."

And finally, the video screens are being put through their paces, just to be sure no glitches occur before the start of the season.

Sportservice will handle concessions this year, as it has since 1985, and the company is already hard at work stockpiling lots of food and souvenirs for fans to enjoy.

Sportservice worked through the winter renovating concession stands, spending $3.3 million overhauling 19 stands. Ten more will be done in the coming off-season. Several new items will be on the menu for fans to enjoy.

New grills have been installed, providing a variety of hot dogs, bratwurst and hamburgers. Chicken sandwiches and french fries have been added this year. Three new stands will sell frozen yogurt and other ice cream treats. Four permanent nacho stands will replace the portable carts used last year.

"Lots of people come to the stadium a couple of hours early and have meals at the stadium, and we want to give them more of a choice," Wehling said.

Concessions are big business. Sportservice employs 500 vendors and Stadium Club employees. And the concession business is a profitable one.

Last year, 52,000 fans spent an average of $6.52 per person on Opening Day. Add that to 600 Stadium Club patrons and a full house in Busch Stadium's 70 boxes, and the numbers are more impressive.

Calculating how much fans will purchase can be tricky, but a Sportservice spokesperson said, "Sportservice has been around long enough to gauge Opening Day sales, as well as sales during a big home stand or a rainy day."

On Baseball

By Rob Rains

Where are Green, Nieto and Young?

In the winter of 1985, the editors at Baseball America gazed into a crystal ball and envisioned the Cardinals' starting lineup for opening day, 1989.

Considering all the changes the team has gone through since then, the lineup they came up with is remarkably close to the nine names on the lineup card: Whitey Herzog turned in to the umpires Monday at Shea Stadium in New York.

Following is Baseball America's projected starting lineup, as reported in the magazine's Feb. 25, 1985 issue, with comments about where some of the players are now:

Catcher: Tom Nieto. He was traded by the Cardinals to the Montreal Expos in spring 1986. He was with the Phillies this spring, but was optioned last week to their Triple A club.

First base: David Green. He had unlimited potential, but also too many problems. He tried a comeback with the Cardinals' Triple A Louisville club last year, but was released. Green now is out of baseball.

Second base: Terry Pendleton. He came up in the organization as a second baseman, but was shifted to third before he reached the majors.

Shortstop: Ozzie Smith. The easiest prediction.

Third base: Jim Lindeman. He did make the opening-day roster, but as a backup, not a starter. He originally was a third baseman, but first base has turned out to be his best position.

Left field: Vince Coleman. The prediction of Coleman's spot in the starting lineup was made two months before he ever played in the majors, but the potential obviously was there.

Center field: Willie McGee. Next to Smith, the easiest choice in projecting the lineup.

Right field: Andy Van Slyke. Now with Pittsburgh, although many Cardinal fans wish this prediction had come true.

Pitcher: John Young. The biggest reach in the would-be lineup. Young at the time was considered the top prospect in the organization, but he came down with a sore arm. He was traded to the Mets in 1985 as part of the Jose Oquendo deal, but never recovered from his arm injury. He now is out of baseball.

Just for fun, here are the remainder of the Cardinals' top 10 prospects, as they were ranked in 1985, behind Young:

1. Mike Dunne; 2. Coleman; 3. Todd Worrell; 4. Curt Ford; 5. Lindeman; 6. Tom Fagnot; 7. Jose Gonzalez (now Jose Uribe); 8. Nieto; 10. Mike Shade.

The crystal ball still is working, and here is the projected opening-day lineup for the Cardinals in 1989 as reported by Baseball America:

The Cardinals' top 10 prospects this year, as ranked by the magazine:

1. Zeile; 2. Kris Carpenter; 3. Ken Hill; 4. John Bricks; 5. Tim Jones; 6. Jordan; 7. Lankford; 8. Geronimo Pena; 9. Mike Fitzgerald; 10. Brad DuVall.

Even though four of those 10 players are starting pitchers (Carpenter, Hill, Bricks and DuVall), there is an obvious shortage of starting pitching prospects at the Triple A and Double A levels in the Cardinal organization. That is why the team has a right to be worried about what will happen if another pitcher gets injured this season.

Because of the shortage of prospects, the Cardinals have gone out and signed pitchers with major-league experience to fill the gap. Eight pitchers on Louisville's roster have pitched in the majors, but only two, Hill and Scott Arnold, are considered prospects for anything other than short-term help. Arnold, who was 10-4 last year at Double A Arkansas, was the only pitcher at either Louisville or Arkansas last year to win at least 10 games.

If spring training statistics mean anything, one player to watch this year is San Francisco's Kevin Mitchell. He led National League players in average, home runs, RBIs, runs, slugging percentage and on-base percentage. Mitchell will be batting fourth for the Giants, and they hope he will better protect third-place hitter Will Clark. You have got to give the
